Salton Hall on Trial in Veginia for Murder-He Boasts of Having Killed Ninety-Nine Men

Monnistown, Tenn., Jan. 20.-The trial of Salton Hall, the man who is said to have killed ninety-nine men, commenced at Gladeville, Va. Tuesday. The entire day was devoted to impaneling a jury. Weilnesday was devoted to hearing testimony adduced by the prosecution and Thursday was devoted to the testimony for the defense. The case will be given to the fury to-day. The crime for which Hall is now being tried is the murder of Policeman Hylton, of Norton, Va., who had under arrest Miles Bates, Hall's alleged accomplice.

An Awful Record. Hall has the reputation of having killed by himself more people than any other living man. He has killed, it is said, a man in Catlettaburg, Ky., stepfather, three cousins, two brothers in law, his second wife's first husband, his own first wife and a number of others. He essisted in the killing or wounding of all the Floyd county (Va.) Jones faction, Shortly after that he killed the sherit of Floyd county. Dick Nance, the Knott county desperado, was killed by Hall. He threw his half-brother, John Adams, from a window in Catlettsburg, Ky., and he died from the injury received. Hall then returned to the mountains and met the wife of a man named Saylor. Saylor was killed, and Hall left with the woman. He afterwards fell in with Milt Turner and killed him. He went to Coburn, Va., last summer and offered to kill Jesse Day for five dollars. From there he went to Norton and killed Policeman Hylton.

The sheriff and a large posse are on guard over him to protect him from mob violence and to defeat his friends, who swear they will release him. Exeltement is high, and there is talk of burning the fail in which he is confined.

COST OF THE SCARE.

The Expense of the Recent War Cloud Will Reach Into the Millions.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.-It is believed here that the acceptance of Chili's apology will obviate all possible danger of war. The usual diplomatic channels will now be employed to conclude the final adjustment of this matter. It is understood that Admiral Gherardi, who was sailing south with the Philadelphia. Kearsage and Concord to join the squadron at Montevideo, will be recalled when he arrives at Bahia. There appears to be no further necessity for a concentration of naval forces in southern waters. The amount expended by the navy department in pushing preparations for hestilities will probably not exceed $2,000,000. The greater portion of this sum was used in the purchase of coal, provisions and materials of war and will not prove a loss. The navy yard forces will now be reduced to their former basis and all extra work stopped. The sums expended in telegraph tolls must be charged to profit and loss. This amount will be nearly $200,000, over $100,000 having already been paid for cablegrams. The results of the partial preparations for war perfected by the mavy department have been productive of much good. The practical workings of the system have been shown and defects can now be remedied. The necessity for a well equipped and efficient navy has also been placed before the public in an emphatic manner.
